

As my husband and I approached London on the Rangoon steamer, I was taken aback by its beauty. The intricacy of the architecture and the history that lay within this city's walls took my breath away. It was at that exact moment, as we glided over the wild currents of the River Thames, that I decided this would be my new forever home. Travel we may, but this would be where I wished to spend the rest of my days with Phileas.

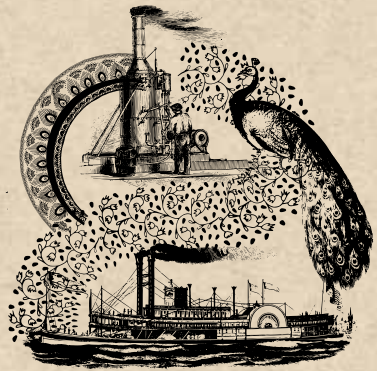

Of course, I would miss India, and wished there were a way I could bring part of it to London with me. It was at that moment, I decided how I would pay homage to my country. I would create a haven right here, in the heart of the city, where I could showcase aspects of my culture's beauty. Here, this steamer would forever dock, and I would open: Mrs Fogg's Maritime Club & Distillery.
